
Government partnership in railroads

by Mark Wymond

The government is mulling a modern freight railway system that is part of a risks ensuing from any type of partnership with the private sector.