Empowerment, patient centred care and self-management. This book introduces an approach that puts a people perspective at the heart of health promotion. Part I introduces the concept and principles of people-centred care.

