Players at a glance The World Chess Championship 2018 is an upcoming chess match between the reigning world champion and his challenger. The event will take place in London, UK, from 25 May to 10 June 2018. The winner of this match will become the 27th World Chess Champion, inheriting the title from the outgoing champion.

The World Chess Championship 2018 is a 12-game match, with the title of World Chess Champion at stake. The match is held under the auspices of FIDE, the world chess organization. The match is divided into two parts, each consisting of six games. The first part of the match took place from 25 May to 10 June 2018, followed by the second part from 18 June to 6 July 2018.

The match is being held in London, UK, at the Royal Albert Hall. The venue is known for its grandeur and historic significance, making it an ideal location for such an important event. The Royal Albert Hall is one of the most famous concert halls in the world and has hosted numerous renowned musical performances.

The match is being broadcast live from the Royal Albert Hall, allowing spectators from around the world to witness the epic clash of chess titans. The match will be broadcast on various channels, including official chess websites, social media platforms, and major broadcast networks.

The World Chess Championship 2018 is a highly anticipated event in the chess world, attracting chess enthusiasts, players, and spectators from all over the globe. The match is expected to generate significant interest and excitement among the chess community, with fans eagerly waiting for the outcome of the match.

In summary, the World Chess Championship 2018 is a crucial event in the chess world, and its outcome will decide the next World Chess Champion. The match is held in London, UK, with the Royal Albert Hall serving as the venue. The match is broadcast live, allowing spectators to witness the historic clash of chess titans. The event is highly anticipated and expected to generate significant interest and excitement among chess enthusiasts around the world.